01 Executive Summary

The Nigerian residential sales market demonstrated resilient demand and structured expansion between April and June 2026, characterised by a 9.7% growth in active listings from the first to the final week of the quarter. Across 225 unique neighbourhoods, cumulative active listings reached 6,785, supported by 5,695 new listings. This steady influx of inventory suggests developers and vendors maintained an active pipeline despite macroeconomic headwinds.

Weekly median prices exhibited volatility, starting at ₦200.0M in early April, dipping to a quarterly low of ₦177.5M in late May, and recovering strongly to close at ₦243.8M by late June. This late-quarter surge reflects a concentration of high-value transactions and premium listings entering the market, particularly in prime metropolitan nodes.

Key Takeaways

→ Lagos and Abuja dominate market share, representing over 90% of active sales listings.

→ Banana Island remains the premier luxury market, commanding a median price of ₦2956.7M.

→ A 9.7% growth in active listings indicates steady developer confidence and pipeline expansion.

→ 177 price reductions signal selective resistance to aggressive pricing in premium segments.

02 Inventory Distribution — Most Active Areas

Inventory distribution remains highly concentrated in premium coastal Lagos corridors. Lekki Phase 1 led market activity with an average of 52.3 active listings per week, followed closely by Lekki at 40.6 and Ikota at 29.0. This concentration highlights developer focus on the Lekki-Epe expansion axis, where land availability and middle-to-high-income demand align. Conversely, inland and secondary markets showed significantly lower listing volumes. This disparity indicates a highly polarised market where capital allocation is heavily weighted towards proven luxury and upper-middle-income enclaves, leaving secondary markets with thinner transaction depth.

03 Pricing Tiers — Expensive & Affordable

The pricing spectrum reveals an extreme luxury ceiling, anchored by Banana Island in Lagos with an average weekly median price of ₦2956.7M and a remarkably low average days on market (DOM) of 4.9 days. Victoria Island and Ikoyi followed with median prices of ₦1354.4M (1.6 days DOM) and ₦1166.7M (6.4 days DOM) respectively, demonstrating robust liquidity at the ultra-high-net-worth tier. At the affordable end, entry-level pricing was dominated by peripheral locations such as Ijebu Ode in Ogun at ₦6.7M and Pyakassa in Abuja at ₦7.5M, both recording 0.0 days DOM, indicating immediate absorption of low-priced stock. This stark contrast highlights a dual-speed market where premium assets command astronomical valuations while affordable suburban options are rapidly cleared.

Lagos

Lagos remains the undisputed centre of gravity for residential sales, accounting for 125 neighbourhoods, 5,263 active listings, and 4,522 new listings. The state's median sales price stood at ₦240.0M, driven by intense activity in Lekki Phase 1. The high volume of new listings relative to active stock indicates rapid turnover, though the 118 price reductions suggest some pricing misalignment among ambitious vendors.

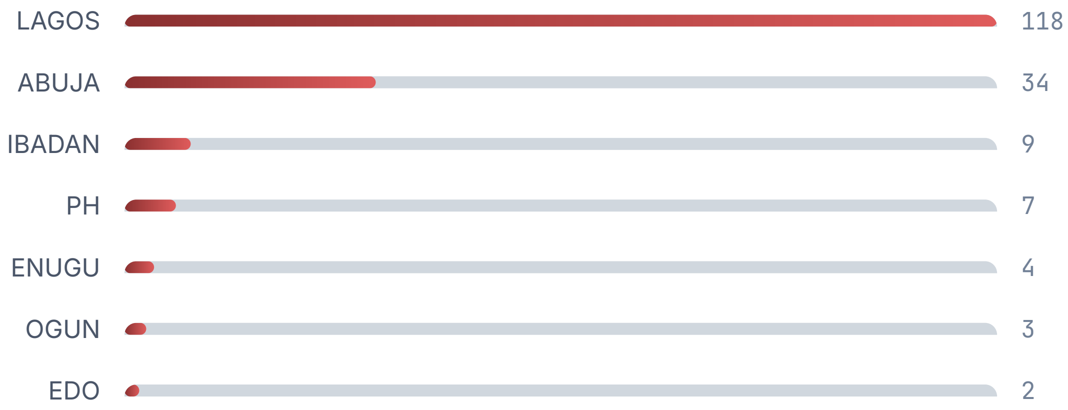
06 Price Reduction Analysis

A total of 177 price reduction events occurred during the quarter, peaking in the week of 27 April 2026 with 30 reductions. Lagos accounted for the vast majority (118), followed by Abuja (34). This pattern of downward adjustments, particularly during peak listing weeks, signals a tactical correction by sellers responding to affordability constraints and rising inventory, forcing realistic pricing to secure liquidity.

Peak reduction week: 2026-04-27 with 30 events.



07 Market Outlook

The sales market is expected to maintain its upward pricing trajectory in prime nodes, supported by the late-quarter recovery to ₦243.8M. However, the volume of price reductions suggests that developers must adopt conservative pricing strategies. High-end coastal Lagos and premium Abuja districts will continue to attract the bulk of capital, while secondary markets will require targeted infrastructure development to unlock meaningful value.

01 Executive Summary

The residential rental market experienced significant expansion between April and June 2026, marked by a substantial 24.3% growth in active listings from the first to the final week. Across 176 unique neighbourhoods, cumulative active listings reached 6,819, fueled by 5,770 new listings. This surge in rental supply reflects a growing trend of developers delivering build-to-rent schemes to capture recurring yield.

Rental pricing remained highly dynamic, starting at a peak median of ₦6.4M/yr in early April, before stabilizing between ₦4.0M/yr and ₦5.0M/yr for most of the quarter, and ending at ₦6.0M/yr in late June. This upward trend towards the end of the quarter indicates strong seasonal demand and landlord pricing power in premium locations.

Key Takeaways

- → Active rental listings grew by 24.3%, indicating a significant expansion in rental supply.
- → Abuja commanded a premium median rent of ₦8.2M/yr, outperforming Lagos's median of ₦4.1M/yr.
- → Banana Island remains the most expensive rental market at ₦48.1M/yr with a DOM of 2.9 days.
- → 237 price reductions signal that landlords must price competitively to avoid costly void periods.

02 Inventory Distribution — Most Active Areas

Rental inventory was heavily concentrated in Lagos, which accounted for 5,983 of the total active listings. Lekki Phase 1 was the most active rental node, averaging 69.0 active listings per week, followed by Lekki at 41.7 and Ikoyi at 36.6. This high concentration of active rental listings in the Lekki-Ikoyi corridor underscores its status as the preferred residential hub for corporate tenants and young professionals. The high volume of new listings (5,770) relative to cumulative active listings suggests rapid tenant turnover and short void periods, particularly in well-located middle-income developments where demand remains consistently high.

1	Lekki Phase 1	LAGOS	69.0
2	Lekki	LAGOS	41.7

03 Pricing Tiers — Expensive & Affordable

The rental pricing structure highlights a steep premium for secure, high-end enclaves. Banana Island led the luxury rental tier with an average weekly median rent of ₦48.1M/yr and a low DOM of 2.9 days. Lekki and Ikoyi also commanded premium rents of ₦39.1M/yr and ₦38.7M/yr respectively, reflecting strong demand from expatriates and high-earning corporate executives. Conversely, affordable rental options were concentrated in mainland Lagos and regional hubs. Ikorodu offered the most affordable entry point at ₦789k/yr (DOM 2.1 days), followed by Mushin at ₦1.0M/yr and Ikotun at ₦1.1M/yr. The rapid absorption of these affordable units, often with 0.0 days DOM, highlights the acute shortage of low-cost formal housing.

04 Regional Deep Dive

Lagos

Lagos dominated the rental landscape with 118 neighbourhoods, 5,983 active listings, and 5,037 new listings, posting a median rent of ₦4.1M/yr. The market's depth is driven by Lekki Phase 1, which remains the primary target for institutional rental investments. However, the 208 price reductions in Lagos indicate that landlords are having to adjust expectations to avoid prolonged vacancies.

118	Lekki Phase 1	₦4.1M/yr

Abuja (FCT)

The federal capital posted a high median rent of ₦8.2M/yr, significantly outstripping Lagos's median. This premium is driven by a high concentration of diplomatic and civil service tenants, sustaining elevated rental values in prime districts.

NEIGHBOURHOODS	TOP AREA	MEDIAN PRICE
46	Gwarinpa	₦8.2M/yr

Other Cities (Ibadan, Enugu, Port Harcourt, Edo, Ogun, Imo)

Outside the major hubs, rental activity was modest. Ibadan recorded 186 active listings with a median rent of ₦2.6M/yr, reflecting its appeal to budget-conscious tenants relocating from Lagos. Port Harcourt, though limited to 2 neighbourhoods, posted a high median rent of ₦13.5M/yr across 13 active listings, driven by corporate demand in the energy sector, while Ogun State remained highly affordable at ₦1.2M/yr.

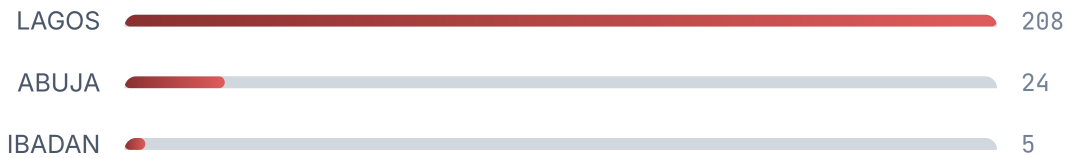
06 Price Reduction Analysis

The rental market recorded 237 price reduction events, peaking at 39 reductions in the week of 8 June 2026. Lagos accounted for 208 of these reductions, highlighting a highly competitive market where tenants have some negotiating leverage. This volume of adjustments suggests that while demand is strong, landlords must price realistically to secure tenants quickly.

Peak reduction week: 2026-06-08 with 39 events.



07 Market Outlook

The rental market is poised for continued growth, supported by the 24.3% expansion in active listings and a strong closing median rent of ₦6.0M/yr. Yield-seeking investors will continue to favour multi-family developments in Lekki Phase 1 and Gwarinpa. However, the high volume of price reductions indicates that rental growth may plateau in secondary locations as tenants resist further increases.

Methodology & Data Notes

Data source: PS-0 PropertyScraper autonomously collects listings from PropertyPro.ng, PrivateProperty.com.ng, and NigeriaPropertyCentre.com on a weekly discovery cadence with mid-week health checks.

Neighbourhood normalisation: Raw neighbourhood strings from all portals are normalised to a canonical name via a manually-curated mapping table. Only neighbourhoods with ≥90% normalisation coverage are included in analysis.

Price storage: All prices are stored internally as 64-bit integer kobo values to eliminate floating-point arithmetic errors. NGN figures displayed in this report are exact integer divisions by 100.

Median vs. mean pricing: Median is used throughout to reduce skew from outlier luxury listings. P25, P75, and P90 data are available in the source dataset but excluded from this summary report for brevity.

Price reductions: An event is recorded when a listing's price decreases between two consecutive observations. Multiple reductions on the same listing count as separate events.

Days on market (DOM): Computed as the number of days between a listing's first observed date and the snapshot date. Listings present since before the pipeline's inception show DOM from the first observation date, not the actual listing date.

Outage handling: On weeks where portal access was blocked or failed, active inventory is carried forward from the prior week. New listing counts are recorded as zero for that week. These weeks are noted in the weekly table.
